The Great Speech-Mustafa Kemal Atatürk

Social Trauma and Televisual Memory-Pelin Baçoğlu 2017-10-24 This book explores responses to authoritarianism in Turkish society through popular culture by examining features in television and film produced between 1980 and 2010 about the 1980 coup. Envisioned as an interdisciplinary study in cultural studies rather than a disciplinary work on cinema, the book advocates for an understanding of popular culture in discerning emerging narratives of nationhood. Through feature films and television serials directly dealing with the coup of 1980, the book exposes tropes and discursive continuities such as "childhood" and "the child." It argues that these conventional tropes enable popular debates on the modern nation's history and its myths of identity.

Madam Atatürk-Işik Çulhašt 2013-10-04 Mustafa Kemal Atatürk is hailed as one of the most charismatic political leaders of the twentieth century, but little is known today about his one and only wife, Latife Hanım. A multilingual intellectual educated at the Sorbonne, Latife's marriage to Atatürk in 1923 set her apart from her contemporaries. Her marriage to Atatürk was a contradiction for a woman living in a time when women were not allowed to vote. Throughout her marriage, Latife stood beside her husband and acted as his interpreter,phemomade, and diplomatic aide. She even raised her wife's second child in her own life after seeing as nearly two years of marriage, Atatürk drowned Latife and she soon disappeared from public life. She was shunned, blamed for the failure of the marriage and portrayed as a skrew-the-top, quarrelsome woman who had strangled Atatürk's nerves. Latife spent the rest of her life in seclusion. In the first biography to be written on Latife Hanım, İşik Çulhašt reconstructs the life of an exceptional and courageous woman, well ahead of her time, who lived through a remarkable period in Turkish history. "Rich, surprising and profound" Pamuk "A daring and independent" "A unique account of the life and times of an exceptional woman" Murv Fats, author of Young Turk

We Are Arrested: Can Dündar 2016-09-13 Following the dramatic events of July 2016, the global spotlight has fallen on Turkey's increasingly authoritarian government, led by President Recep Tayyip Erdogan. International observers fear the attempted coup was a strategie move to prevent a more transparent and accountable political system from emerging. "We Are Arrested" is Dündar's enthralling account of the newspaper's decision to publish and the events that unfolded as a result - including would-be suicide bombings, assassination attempts and fierce attacks from pro-government media - as well as the time he served behind bars for defending the public's right to know.

The Cruise of the Dazzler: Jack London 1892 The Cruise of the Dazzler is an early novel by Jack London, set in his home city of San Francisco. It is considered a boy's adventure novel, in the novel, Joe Bonsall, disillusioned with his dull life at school, runs away and joins the crew of a ship in San Francisco Bay. He finds the captain is in criminal activities. The nautical activities on board a sailing boat are authentically described, and there are convincing dialogues of boats enduring stormy weather.

Atatürk: Andrew Mango 2002-08-26 Mustafa Kemal Atatürk was virtually unknown until 1919, when he led the war against the victorious Allies' plan to partition the Turkish empire. He divided the Allies, defeated the last Sultan, and secured the territory of the Turkish nation state, becoming the first president of the new republic in 1923. In this fast creating his own legend. Andrew Mango's revealing portrait of Atatürk throws light on matters of great importance today: his relationship to his political predecessors, the origins of espionage, helping a terrorist organisation, trying to topple the government and revealing state secrets. His transgression? Publishing photographic evidence of a hitherto covert secret service by the Turkish secret service to radical Islamic organisations fighting government forces in Syria - a crime that was in the interest of to conceal, and a journalist's duty to expose. Arseniy Dzihanov, who served for two life sentences, is also a master in solitary confinement in Turkey's Sivrihis Prisens for three months while awaiting trial. The Young Atatürk-George W. Gawrych 2013-04-16 Mustafa Kemal - latterly and better known as Atatürk - is without doubt the most famous figure in modern Turkish history. But what was his path to power? And how did his early career as a soldier in the Ottoman army affect his later decisions as President? The Young Atatürk tracks the lesser covered period of Kemal's life - from the War of Independence to the founding of the Republic. George W. Gawrych shows that it is only when understanding Kemal's military career that one can fully comprehend how he evolved as one of the twentieth century's most extraordinary statesmen. Gawrych also contributes to the understanding of Kemal by presenting a systematic and critical analysis of his military writings, orders, actions, and letters as well as his political decisions, speeches, publications, and formal correspondence. Soldiering helped shape Kemal's critical reasoning, personal values and emotional intelligence. His experiences of war as a violent outcome of human experience and personal studies helped prepare him for political leadership. Gawrych demonstrates that in the last year of the War of Independence Kemal excelled as both Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces and President of the Grand National Assembly of Turkey. Gawrych incorporates previously-unpublished Ottoman archival documents and in the first Western scholar to conduct extensive research on Kemal in the military archives of the Turkish General Staff. This book is in essential reading for those seeking to understand the establishment of the Republic of Turkey and the part that Kemal played in that process.

Samarkand: Amir Mawali 2012-09-14 Acceding of the innocuous codes of Islam, the Persian poet and sage Omar Khayyam fortuitously sympathizes with the very man who is judged to his alleged crimes. Recognizing, the judge decides to spare him and gives him instead a small, blank book, encouraging him to confine to it all that he knows. Thus begins the longest-blend of fact and fiction to this day. This vividly re-creates the original manuscript of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, Amin Maalouf spans continents and centuries with breathtaking vision: the dusky exoticism of 11th-century Persia, with its poetesses and assassins; the upsurge of the Seljuk Turks, with their khanates and caravans; the Mongol hordes, with their vast empires; and the crusades, with their bloody battles and bloodcurdling Europe. This is an original manuscript of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, in the words of an American academic obsessed with finding the original manuscript - and the final maiden voyage of the Titanic, whose tragedy led to the Rubaiyat's final resting place - all are brought to life with keen assurance by this gifted and award-winning writer.

Ivan and the Challenge of Diversity-Adrien Aupharradez 2007-06-11 This interrogates the racist construction of Asia and Aryanism in an Indian context, arguing that these concepts gave the Indo-European speaking Persian ethnic group an advantage over Iran's non-Persian nationalities and cultures.

A Mystery of Heroes-Stephen Crane 1904-02-28 Though best known for The Red Badge of Courage, his classic novel of men at war, in his tragically brief life and career, Stephen Crane produced a wealth of stories—among them “The Monster,” “The Upturned Face,” “The Open Boat,” and the title story—that stand among the most acclaimed and enduring in the history of American fiction. This superb volume collects stories of unique power and variety in which impressionistic, hallucinatory, and realistic situations alike are brilliantly conveyed through the cold, sometimes brutal irony of Crane’s narrative voice.

Molecular Diagnosis of Genetic Diseases—Bob Ellis 2004 This completely revised and updated second edition integrates the many new technologies and insights now available for the diagnosis of genetic diseases. The authors use such methodologies as PCR optimization dosage analysis, mutagen scanning, and quantitative fluorescent PCR for aneuploidy analysis. Neuroradiography type 1, and Duchenne muscular dystrophy. These largely generic methodologies may be adapted to most genetic conditions for which a molecular diagnosis is relevant. Molecular Diagnosis of Genetic Diseases, Second Edition offers diagnostic molecular genetics a unique opportunity to sharpen their scientific skills in the design of assays, their execution, and their interpretation.

Borders and Brethren—Brenda Shaffer 2002-11-02 The Azerbaijanis have been divided between Iran and the former Soviet republic of Azerbaijan for more than 150 years, yet they have retained their ethnic identity. The collapse of the Soviet Union and the emergence of an independent Azerbaijan have only served to reinforce their collective identity. In Borders and Brethren, Brenda Shaffer examines trends in Azerbaijanis collective identity from the period of the Islamic Revolution in Iran through the Soviet breakup and the beginnings of the Republic of Azerbaijan (1979-2000). Challenging the mainstream view in contemporary Iranian studies, Shaffer argues that a distinctive Azerbaijani identity exists in Iran and that Azerbaijani ethnicity must be a part of studies of Iranian society and assessments of regime stability in Iran. She analyzes how Azerbaijanis have maintained their identity and how that identity has assumed different forms in the former Soviet Union and Iran. In addition to contributing to the study of ethnic identity, the book reveals the dilemmas of ethnic politics in Iran.

Global Brand Strategy—Jan-Benedict Steenkamp introduces the global brand value chain and explains how brand equity factors into shareholder value. The book equips executives with techniques for developing strategy, organizing execution, and measuring results so that your brand will prosper globally. What sets strong global brands apart? First, they generate more than half their revenue and most of their growth outside their home market. Second, their brand equity is responsible for a massive percentage of their firm’s market value. Third, they operate as single brands everywhere on the planet. We find them in B2C and B2B industries, among large and small companies, and among established companies and new businesses. The stewards of these brands have a set of skills and knowledge that sets them apart from the typical corporate marketer. So what’s their secret? In a world that is globalizing, but not yet globalized, how do you build a powerful global brand that resonates universally but also accommodates local nuances? How do you ensure that it is dynamic and flexible enough to change at market speed? World-class marketing expert Jan-Benedict Steenkamp has studied global brands for over 25 years on six continents. He has distilled their practices into eight tools that you can start using today. From case studies around the world, Steenkamp’s book is provocative and timely. Global Brand Strategy speaks to three types of B2C and B2B managers: those who want to strengthen already strong global brands, those who want to launch their brands globally and get results, and those who need to revive their global brand and stop the bleeding.

Still of the Night—Curtis Cole 2021-04-02 The seals are cracking. Hell will follow. And I’m caught in the middle. Everyone says I’m cursed. My father would’ve used the word evil. That’s his excuse for being so strict, at any rate. Little does he know how right he is. I might look like a good girl on the outside, but deep down I really can’t carry the mark on my hand to prove it. But being good means not getting in trouble at school or he’ll take it out on me. I am barely allowed to hang out with my friends, and they’re starting to resent me. The safe and stable life I’ve been forced into is falling apart. Then my stepbrother moves in. Suddenly, being good doesn’t seem so important. He makes friends with the local bad boys, and being around them feels exactly like where I belong. The problem is that Dad is having none of it. They’re trouble. I’m supposed to be good, and the only one suffering here is me. I’m going to have to choose what matters most. Is it the years I’ve spent with my best friend? The boyfriend who’s my escape from this insanity? Or maybe it’s the three guys who finally make me feel alive— even with all the secrets they keep. Secrets that I’m stuck in the middle of. Secrets that prove I’m so much worse than I thought. Secrets that are tied directly to the scar on my hand. Still of the Night is a slow-burn, pulse-pounding romance where the heroine doesn’t have to choose between her love interests. Some aspects may be triggering for some readers. Includes stepbrother romance, an abusive parent, a parent lost to cancer, incidences of domestic violence, bullying, and plenty of teen awkwardness. Book 1 of 4- Release scheduled: April 1, 2021 Curtis Cole is the pseudonym for the combined efforts of Kitty Cox and Aubyn Hadley. After writing the Gamer Girls series together, the pair decided to join forces on a more permanent basis.

Routledge Handbook of EU-Middle East Relations—Dimitris Bouris 2021-11 EU-Middle East relations are multifaceted, varied and complex, shaped by historical, political, economic, migratory, social and cultural dynamics. Covering these relations from a broad perspective that captures continuities, ruptures and entanglements, this handbook provides a clearer understanding of trends, thus contributing to a range of different turns in international relations. The interdisciplinary and diverse assessments through which readers may grasp a more nuanced comprehension of the intricate entanglements in EU-Middle East relations are carefully provided in these pages by leading experts in the various (sub)fields, including academics, think-tankers, as well as policymakers. The volume offers original reflections on historical constructions; theoretical approaches; multilateralism and geopolitical perspectives; contemporary issues; peace, security and conflict; and development, economics, trade and society. This handbook provides an entry point for an informed exploration of the multiple themes, actors, structures, policies and processes that mould EU-Middle East relations. It is designed for policymakers, academics and students of all levels interested in politics, international and global studies, contemporary history, regionalism and area studies.

Working with Street Children—Unesco 1995 Governments have traditionally left the plight of street children and working children, who by some counts number over 100 million, to individuals and nongovernmental organizations, including many religious organizations. As a result, there are a multitude of small, uncoordinated, but highly effective projects throughout the world concentrated in urban areas. The 18 case studies presented illustrate the work carried out by these organizations and demonstrate how rehabilitation can be conducted working with and for children. Part 1, “Reinsertion through Education,” looks at seven projects characterized by efforts to ensure the reinsertion of street and working children into their families or mainstream society through education. The four projects in part 2 rely on work either rather than education in their efforts. Part 3 describes three projects that concentrate on improving the situation of children by teaching them to use the street environment and by capitalizing on their experiences and practical intelligence. Part 4 concentrates on the administration of projects for street children. The case studies are presented without commentary to form a collection of results and ideas to stimulate imagination and interest, particularly among those responsible for government policies. Valid solutions will come only from strong governmental commitment. ([SLD])
